Poison Gas Trains Moving Across U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Two trains carrying canisters of the World War I killer gas phosgene were headed toward industrial purchasers in Louisiana and New York State today, with one routed through metropolitan Chicago.

The gas—some 300 tons in canisters—witnesses in Des Moines, Iowa, described as rusty and creased—is being shipped from the Army's Rocky Mountain Arsenal in Colorado under special permits from the U.S. Department of Transportation.

The shipment routed through the Chicago area is for a chemical plant in Lockport, N.Y. The portion of the shipment going to an undisclosed Louisiana destination splits off from the main train Thursday at St. Joseph, Mo., for the trip south.

Think Soviets Started Clash With Red China

HONG KONG (AP) — The Soviets probably started the latest border clash by invading Chinese territory, Western analysts of Chinese military affairs said today.

All evidence here so far strongly indicates that the Chinese troops involved in the fighting were local security and militia troops who were surprised by the Russian attack, analysts said.

They listed these factors and this reasoning:
—Accounts from Moscow of the fighting have emphasized that Soviet troops cut off Chinese border guards from "reinforcements."

It is likely that the cut-off "reinforcements" were troops of the professional People's Liberation Army who were camped some distance behind the border and who were attempting to reach the border as soon as fighting began.

—Moscow's announcement of the first fighting on Wednesday gave few details of Soviet casualties.

Soviet reports of Chinese-provoked battles have always given extensive accounts of Russians killed and wounded, with lengthy stories about the heroism of individual soldiers. But the Soviet press has given only scanty details of battles provoked by the Russian side.

This time, however, it has been Radio Peking that has given most of the details of the fighting, casualties and types of armored equipment and aircraft used by the Russians.

Sinkiang is a "very poor province for China in security terms and the Chinese would be extremely unlikely to provoke anything there."

Chinese border policy in Sinkiang has been cautious because China control of the area is relatively weak. Local minorities in the past have rebelled against Peking's authority and crossed the border into the Soviet Union, where many have relatives and friends. Soviet radio propaganda has encouraged these defections.

Court Martial Of Aussie Captain Set

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — The commander of the Australian aircraft carrier Melbourne will face a court-martial because of his ship's collision with the U.S. destroyer Frank E. Evans, the Australian naval department said today.

The Evans was cut in half in the South China Sea June 3 during a Southeast Asia Treaty Organization exercise, and 71 U.S. sailors were lost.

The Melbourne's commander, Capt. John P. Stevenson, is charged with failure to transmit to the destroyer a positive direction after he had determined it was on a collision course and failure to put the Melbourne's engines astern when he had determined the collision could not be avoided by action of the destroyer alone.

The navy said the court-martial will begin Aug. 20 in Sydney.

A spokesman said the combined American-Australian board that investigated the collision agreed unanimously that primary responsibility for the collision rested with the Evans, but they also were unanimous in finding that the Melbourne could have given more positive directions to the destroyer.

The U.S. Navy announced in Manila Thursday that it is near the end of an investigation to determine if any of the destroyer's officers should be brought to trial.

British Troops Used In Bitter Irish Strife

NORTHERN IRELAND RIOTS SPREAD TO BELFAST — Flames rise from burning cars and buildings in Belfast, Northern Ireland, as major rioting by Catholics spreads from embattled Londonderry.

Report 5 Dead From Gunfire, 42 Wounded

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The British government recalled troops from leave and flew others to Northern Ireland today after a night of gunfire in Belfast and Armagh left 5 dead, 192 persons injured and parts of the state capital in flames.

Fighting between the police and Protestants on one side and Roman Catholics on the other ebbed as morning came. But hatred seethed between the Catholic minority and the Protestant majority, and Ulster's worst outbreak of violence in nearly 50 years appeared far from over.

The Royal Air Force flew 600 British infantrymen from England to fill the gaps left by British troops called to action in Londonderry for the first time since World War I. Londonderry was calm but uneasy.

Another 600 men of the Royal Green Jackets were being recalled from leave and put on standby "because of the seriousness of the situation" in Ulster, the British Defense Ministry announced.

There were fears that the night of violence, in which at least 42 persons were treated for gunshot wounds, may add new fuel to the rioting throughout Ulster cities.

But the Ulster government was hesitant to call in additional British troops to Belfast—for it would indicate it could no longer control the situation with its own Royal Ulster Constabulary.

Opposition to the Ulster government spread to Irishmen in Britain. The Irish Immigrants Republican Organization called for a national one-day work stoppage of Irish sympathizers in London, Birmingham, Glasgow and other cities.

The Irish Civil Rights Solidarity Group said it was opening recruiting offices in Britain to enroll volunteers "to fight alongside the people of Derry." A token force of 50 left Thursday night for Northern Ireland.

Expect Heavier Viet Action Before Sept. 2 Anniversary

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. military spokesmen said today they anticipate Viet Cong and North Vietnamese attacks will continue at their present level of 20 to 40 a night, then shoot up to another "high point" before Sept. 2.

U.S. headquarters reported 41 enemy rocket and mortar attacks and eight ground fights from 8 a.m. Thursday to 8 a.m. today, with 78 of the enemy killed in the ground action U.S. casualties were 11 killed and 88 wounded, the command said, while South Vietnamese casualties were described as "light."

More than 150 allied bases and towns were hit with rocket, mortar and ground attacks early Tuesday in what the U.S. Command considers the first "high point" of the Communist command's fall campaign.

Since then, the attacks have dropped off gradually to between 20 and 40 a night, a U.S. spokesman said and they are expected to remain at that level for awhile.

U.S. analysts expect the next "high point" slightly in advance of Sept. 2 because that is the 24th anniversary of Ho Chi Minh's proclamation of the independence of Vietnam.

The Viet Cong said today it had launched "a new and extremely hard-hitting offensive of punishment" and promised that it would continue on an intermittent "lightning strike" basis.

The Viet Cong's Liberation Radio said the new offensive was designed to "show our iron will that the longer the Americans prolong their war of aggression the more they will bleed and die."

The broadcast claimed "massive victories" earlier this week in "our new offensive of simultaneous lightning attacks" and said Viet Cong forces "will unflinchingly go forward with similar simultaneous lightning attack and will develop to the fullest enlarged guerrilla warfare."

U.S. spokesmen said the heaviest ground fighting continued to be along the Cambodian border north of Saigon. U.S. intelligence officers estimate there are 3,000 to 5,000 North Vietnamese troops in the area and say they are trying to seize control, at least temporarily, of a provincial capital in the area—Tay Ninh, An Loc or Song Be—to score a propaganda victory.

Red Flareup Won't Change U.S. Plans For Troop Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon officials indicate the latest flareup of enemy activity in South Vietnam has not affected prospects for further U.S. troop withdrawals.

Their assessment came about the time President Nixon was meeting Thursday with the National Security Council at San Clemente, Calif. The President and his top military, diplomatic and intelligence advisers reportedly talked over the heavy enemy attacks launched this week.

Military sources here said the development in South Vietnam was not critical.

"This has not changed the basic factors in our thinking," one official said.

More enemy shelling and ground attacks are likely in the coming days, he said, but unless these are considerably more damaging, the Nixon administration will be inclined to pull more troops out of the war.

Best estimate at this point is that the next withdrawal would involve around 25,000 men, although the precise recommendation from Gen. Creighton W. Abrams in Saigon has not yet been received in Washington.

A report that President Nixon has asked the Pentagon to plan for the return of 100,000 more Americans by Christmas was labeled "speculative" by the Defense Department.

Some ranking Pentagon officials believe it would be precipitous to pull more troops out of the war.

tous to pull large numbers of forces out of Vietnam in a short period of time and might affect the stability of the government in Saigon.

The current U.S. withdrawal program is closely linked to South Vietnam's schedule for training troops to replace departing Americans.

Top military officers are said to believe Saigon could not replace more than an additional 50,000 American troops this year. But with large numbers of fighting troops leaving, it also appears possible that support forces could be trimmed.

Pair Hijack Jet Plane To Havana

MIAMI (AP) — Claiming he longed to see his mother, a red-eyed gunman with a knife-wielding companion hijacked a Northeast Airlines jet Thursday, maintaining 1969's record for more than one forced flight to Cuba per week.

Crew and passengers on the Boston-to-Miami flight said the two men barged into the cockpit just south of Wilmington, N.C.

"Cuba! Cuba!" the pilot said the hijackers shouted, waving a pistol and knife.

The plane carried 44 passengers and a crew of eight. Forced to keep radio silence, the pilot tripped a secret signal near Jacksonville, Fla., alerting federal aviation authorities that the flight had been diverted.

Capt. Gray B. Newman said the hijackers were nervous and excited as they moved around the cockpit, but "they seemed to have this planned out."

The flight was the 39th commercial jet hijacked to Cuba this year, giving about 2,075 persons unscheduled trips.

July Bad Month For Spiral Of Inflation, Officials Say

WASHINGTON (AP) — July was not a good month for the nation's anti-inflation warriors.

Personal income hit a new peak but so did prices. The Commerce Department confirmed its fears about continuing inflation. And there is another apparently disturbing report on the U.S. balance of payments deficit.

The bad news emerged Thursday in an avalanche of economic indicators, and Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy underscored it by grimly warning of an "intolerable inflation" that could cut the value of the dollar in half in less than a dozen years.

"We've been a bit late in recognizing just how strong these forces are that control" rising personal income, one economist admitted after Commerce reported a $6 billion increase during July.

Income rose to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $72.3 billion. The biggest single factor in the outsized increase was a $2.5 billion federal pay raise that won't happen again. Economists think the monthly increase will be around $5 billion for the rest of the year.

Kennedy, speaking at the dedication of a new Mint in Philadelphia, cited the 6½ per cent increase in the consumer price index for the first half of this year.

In the upside-down world of the economic cancer called inflation, news that once was good now is bad and what once was bad now is good or at least acceptable.

Increasing personal income is one example. In normal times it means John Q. Citizen can swing the new car or his wife can buy better cuts of meat. In times of inflation, however, their spending drives up prices, which in turn cuts their buying power.

The Commerce Department gave another example of how that works when it published its revised figures on the gross national product for the second period. It was up $16 billion, or 1¼ per cent—which is another way of saying that much more money changed hands.

But 1¼ per cent of that was in price increases while only a half of a per cent was in expanded production. In Thursday's revision, consumer spending was higher than originally estimated by $2 billion while at the same time businessmen were cutting their inventories by $2.5 billion more than originally figured.

cal plant in Lockport, N.Y. The portion of the shipment going to an undisclosed Louisiana destination splits off from the main train Thursday at St. Joseph, Mo., for the trip south.

A federal official said two technical experts, equipped with a neutralizing agent in powdered form "in case of accident," were with the train headed for New York.

The shipments were disclosed Thursday by Rep. Richard D. McCarthy, D-N.Y., whose investigation into U.S. production of chemical and biological warfare agents resulted in abandonment by the Army last May of a plan to ship obsolete gas by rail from Denver to the Atlantic Ocean for dumping.

McCarthy, in a letter to President Nixon, urged him "to have this matter thoroughly investigated to insure that the safety of the American public is protected."

The New York Democrat said the train carrying the gas destined for Lockport, loaded 15 one-ton canisters to a flatcar on a 14-car train, sat in Denver for several hours and in Des Moines, a city of 250,000, for an hour and 20 minutes.

Draft Lottery Gets Boost In Senate; House Cautious

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's proposal for a draft lottery has received a Senate boost, but the key to any action before the current draft law runs out in 1971 still lies with the House Armed Services Committee.

Sen. John C. Stennis, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said Thursday he has introduced the administration proposal and "studies will be made looking to hearings in 1970."

In the past, the Senate has been favorable to a lottery system under which the youngest men in the prime selection group would be taken first. It included such a provision in its version of the last draft extension in 1967.

But the House refused to go along, and the result was a provision in the draft law barring the President from changing the present procedure under which the oldest eligibles are taken first.

An aide to Stennis indicated the Mississippi Democrat is generally in accord with the administration proposal which would subject all potential draftees to one year in which they could be called.

Those deferred to go to college eventually would be placed in the draft pool along with those 19-year-olds who had not received deferments, and the monthly quotas would be filled by lottery selection.

Indications on the House side were that its Armed Services Committee might do little more next year than study the situation in preparation for action in 1971 before the present act expires.

Missile System Needs Funding

WASHINGTON (AP) — A money crunch has forced the Pentagon to review its plan for trying to improve the guidance system for the multiple warhead Poseidon missile.

The submarine-launched missile, which reportedly has 10 warheads, has been flight tested nine times and is scheduled for deployment sometime after mid-1970.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, when he urged Congress last April to jack up funds for the improved guidance system, said:

"This is an important program since it promises to improve significantly the accuracy of the Poseidon missile, thus enhancing its effectiveness against hard targets."

But Dr. John S. Foster Jr., the department's chief scientist, told a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee behind closed doors on Aug. 5 the question of whether to put the improved system in Poseidon is being reviewed "in view of the serious fiscal situation."

Foster's testimony, with security deletions by the Pentagon, was released Thursday by the plane which has been holding hearings on the advisability of a mutual ratification with Russia on flight testing of MIRV's—multiple individually-targeted re-entry vehicles.

The comments on Poseidon came during an exchange with Rep. Donald M. Fraser, D-Minn., who suggested Laird's testimony would raise questions in the minds of Soviet military planners.

Rain Dancers Do Their Thing

GALLUP, N.M. (AP) — The Zuni Indian rain dancers did their thing at the annual intertribal Indian ceremonial Thursday evening in Gallup.

When they walked off the stage, a thunderstorm struck, drenching over 6,000 pale face spectators. Officials at the ceremonial said they were uncertain whether the rain dancers would be invited to perform at next year's ceremonial.

Air Force Astronauts Join NASA Team

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Seven astronauts from a supersecret Air Force space program canceled June 10 have joined a long line of rookie astronauts waiting for their first ride into space.

The new additions Thursday raise the number of National Aeronautics and Space Administration astronauts to 54. Of the others, 32 have been waiting up to three years for a first ride into space.

Four of the new spacemen are Air Force majors, two are Navy lieutenant commanders and one is a Marine major. All are graduates of the Air Force Aerospace Research Pilot's School.

The Air Force majors are Karol J. Bobko, 32, of Seaford, N.Y.; Charles G. Fullerton, 31, Portland, Ore.; Henry W. Hartsfield, 35, Birmingham, Ala. and Donald H. Peterson, 35, Winona, Miss.

The Navy lieutenant commanders are Richard H. Truly, 32, Meridian, Miss., and Robert L. Crippen, 32, Porter, Tex. The Marine is Maj. Robert F. Overmyer, 33, Westlake, Ohio.

All were members of the astronaut corps in the Air Force's now-cancelled Manned Orbiting Laboratory (MOL) program, a military effort built around plans to establish a space station orbiting earth.

Another MOL astronaut, Air Force Lt. Col. Albert H. Crews, Alexandria, La., was assigned to a ground-based job in the NASA flight crew operations directorate.

Peterson is a West Point graduate who holds a master's degree in nuclear engineering from the Air Force Institute of Technology. He is married and has three children. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Peterson of Winona, Miss.

Fullerton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Fullerton of Salem, Ore., holds two degrees from the California Institute of Technology. He's a former Strategic Air Command bomber pilot. He's married but childless.

Bobko is the first Air Force Academy graduate to be assigned to the space program. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Bobko of Seaford, N.Y. Bobko is a former jet pilot and is married and has two children.

Hartsfield, son of Mrs. Pete M. Moore, Pinson, Ala., is a graduate of Auburn University. He is a former fighter pilot and has completed some graduate work in physics and astronautics. He is married and has two daughters.

Bobko, Hartsfield and Peterson will complete graduate degrees before joining the NASA space corps.

Overmyer holds two science degrees and is a former jet fighter pilot. He is the son of Mrs. Rolandus Overmyer of Lomita, Calif. and is married with two daughters. His wife has a private pilot's license.

Crippen is a University of Texas graduate with 2½ years experience as an aircraft carrier fighter pilot. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Crippen of Porter, Tex. and is married and has three children.

British Troops Used In Bitter Irish Strife

NORTHERN IRELAND RIOTS SPREAD TO BELFAST — Flames rise from burning cars and buildings in Belfast, Northern Ireland, as major rioting by Catholics spreads from embattled Londonderry.

Report 5 Dead From Gunfire, 42 Wounded

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The British government recalled troops from leave and flew others to Northern Ireland today after a night of gunfire in Belfast and Armagh left 5 dead, 192 persons injured and parts of the state capital in flames.

Fighting between the police and Protestants on one side and Roman Catholics on the other ebbed as morning came. But hatred seethed between the Catholic minority and the Protestant majority, and Ulster's worst outbreak of violence in nearly 50 years appeared far from over.

The Royal Air Force flew 600 British infantrymen from England to fill the gaps left by British troops called to action in Londonderry for the first time since World War I. Londonderry was calm but uneasy.

Another 600 men of the Royal Green Jackets were being recalled from leave and put on standby "because of the seriousness of the situation" in Ulster, the British Defense Ministry announced.

There were fears that the night of violence, in which at least 42 persons were treated for gunshot wounds, may add new fuel to the rioting throughout Ulster cities.

But the Ulster government was hesitant to call in additional British troops to Belfast—for it would indicate it could no longer control the situation with its own Royal Ulster Constabulary.

Opposition to the Ulster government spread to Irishmen in Britain. The Irish Immigrants Republican Organization called for a national one-day work stoppage of Irish sympathizers in London, Birmingham, Glasgow and other cities.

The Irish Civil Rights Solidarity Group said it was opening recruiting offices in Britain to enroll volunteers "to fight alongside the people of Derry." A token force of 50 left Thursday night for Northern Ireland.

The gunfire victims were the first deaths recorded in three days and nights of religious warfare that started Tuesday

Find Couple Murdered In Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A disabled Memphis accountant and his wife were found murdered at their fashionable Memphis apartment late Thursday evening.

Police officers on the scene said the killings resembled the weekend deaths at the home of Hollywood actress Sharon Tate.

Officers declined to speculate, however, on whether the slayings were connected with those in Hollywood.

Police said the victims were Roy Kenneth Dumas, 58, and his wife, Vernalyn Kelly Dumas, 46. Memphis police and Fire Director Frank Holloman said Mrs. Dumas appeared to have been raped.

Holloman said the bodies were discovered in separate bedrooms in the couple's three-bedroom, ground level apartment in the midtown section of the city.

The couple's hands had been tied behind them, and there was such a profusion of blood at the scene that the exact manner of death was not immediately discernible, Holloman said.

Markl jumped from his car and notified police, who recognized the description as that of a 22-pound, 7-month-old pet leopard reported lost by Richard Ebensteiner Monday.

Court Martial Of Aussie Captain Set

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — The commander of the Australian aircraft carrier Melbourne will face a court-martial because of his ship's collision with the U.S. destroyer Frank E. Evans, the Australian naval department said today.

The Evans was cut in half in the South China Sea June 3 during a Southeast Asia Treaty Organization exercise, and 71 U.S. sailors were lost.

The Melbourne's commander, Capt. John P. Stevenson, is charged with failure to transmit to the destroyer a positive direction after he had determined it was on a collision course and failure to put the Melbourne's engines astern when he had determined the collision could not be avoided by action of the destroyer alone.

The navy said the court-martial will begin Aug. 20 in Sydney.

A spokesman said the combined American-Australian board that investigated the collision agreed unanimously that primary responsibility for the collision rested with the Evans, but they also were unanimous in finding that the Melbourne could have given more positive directions to the destroyer.

The U.S. Navy announced in Manila Thursday that it is near the end of an investigation to determine if any of the destroyer's officers should be brought to trial.

Expect Heavier Viet Action Before Sept. 2 Anniversary

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. military spokesmen said today they anticipate Viet Cong and North Vietnamese attacks will continue at their present level of 20 to 40 a night, then shoot up to another "high point" before Sept. 2.

U.S. headquarters reported 41 enemy rocket and mortar attacks and eight ground fights from 8 a.m. Thursday to 8 a.m. today, with 78 of the enemy killed in the ground action U.S. casualties were 11 killed and 88 wounded, the command said, while South Vietnamese casualties were described as "light."

More than 150 allied bases and towns were hit with rocket, mortar and ground attacks early Tuesday in what the U.S. Command considers the first "high point" of the Communist command's fall campaign.

Since then, the attacks have dropped off gradually to between 20 and 40 a night, a U.S. spokesman said and they are expected to remain at that level for awhile.

U.S. analysts expect the next "high point" slightly in advance of Sept. 2 because that is the 24th anniversary of Ho Chi Minh's proclamation of the independence of Vietnam.

The Viet Cong said today it had launched "a new and extremely hard-hitting offensive of punishment" and promised that it would continue on an intermittent "lightning strike" basis.

The Viet Cong's Liberation Radio said the new offensive was designed to "show our iron will that the longer the Americans prolong their war of aggression the more they will bleed and die."

The broadcast claimed "massive victories" earlier this week in "our new offensive of simultaneous lightning attacks" and said Viet Cong forces "will unflinchingly go forward with similar simultaneous lightning attack and will develop to the fullest enlarged guerrilla warfare."

U.S. spokesmen said the heaviest ground fighting continued to be along the Cambodian border north of Saigon. U.S. intelligence officers estimate there are 3,000 to 5,000 North Vietnamese troops in the area and say they are trying to seize control, at least temporarily, of a provincial capital in the area—Tay Ninh, An Loc or Song Be—to score a propaganda victory.

The current U.S. withdrawal program is closely linked to South Vietnam's schedule for training troops to replace departing Americans.

Top military officers are said to believe Saigon could not replace more than an additional 50,000 American troops this year. But with large numbers of fighting troops leaving, it also appears possible that support forces could be trimmed.

"This has not changed the basic factors in our thinking," one officer said.

More enemy shellings and ground attacks are likely in the coming days, he said, but unless these are considerably more damaging, the Nixon administration will be inclined to pull more troops out of the war.

Best estimate at this point is that the next withdrawal would involve around 25,000 men, although the precise recommendation from Gen. Creighton W. Abrams in Saigon has not yet been received in Washington.

A report that President Nixon has asked the Pentagon to plan for the return of 100,000 more Americans by Christmas was labeled "speculative" by the Defense Department.

Some ranking Pentagon officers believe it would be precipitous to pull large numbers of forces out of Vietnam in a short period of time and might affect the stability of the government in Saigon.

Red Flareup Won't Change U.S. Plans For Troop Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon officials indicate the latest flareup of enemy activity in South Vietnam has not affected prospects for further U.S. troop withdrawals.

Their assessment came about the time President Nixon was meeting Thursday with the National Security Council at San Clemente, Calif. The President and his top military, diplomatic and intelligence advisers reportedly talked over the heavy enemy attacks launched this week.

Military sources here said the development in South Vietnam was not critical.

"This has not changed the basic factors in our thinking," one officer said.

Pair Hijack Jet Plane To Havana

MIAMI (AP) — Claiming he longed to see his mother, a red-eyed gunman with a knife-wielding companion hijacked a Northeast Airlines jet Thursday, maintaining 1969's record rate of more than one forced flight to Cuba per week.

Crew and passengers on the Boston-to-Miami flight said the two men barged into the cockpit just south of Wilmington, N.C.

"Cuba! Cuba!" the pilot said the hijackers shouted, waving a pistol and knife.

The plane carried 44 passengers and a crew of eight. Forced to keep radio silence, the pilot tripped a secret signal near Jacksonville, Fla., alerting federal aviation authorities that the flight had been diverted.

Capt. Gray B. Newman said the hijackers were nervous and excited as they moved around the cockpit, but "they seemed to have this planned out."

The flight was the 39th commercial jet hijacked to Cuba this year, giving about 2,075 persons unscheduled trips.

Labor-Democrat Coalition Opens Fire On Nixon Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — A coalition of labor and key Democrats in Congress, taking aim on President Nixon's welfare plan, argue there are better ways to help 22 million welfare recipients and "working poor."

While giving Nixon points for trying, the labor-Democrat coalition Thursday denounced Nixon's $4 billion proposal as little more than a subsidy for low-wage employers.

"The AFL-CIO vigorously opposes the use of federal funds to subsidize the employers of cheap labor," said President

George Meany of the 13.6 million-member labor federation. "Living standards of many recipients would actually be lowered since the proposal appears to bar these recipients from food stamps they now receive," Meany said in opposing Nixon's plan to provide a $1,600 federal floor of welfare payments for a family of four, whether it has a breadwinner or not.

Nixon's plan for the first time in the nation's history would give welfare to low-wage workers on a graduated scale.

Meany joined Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., in criticizing Nixon's proposal to require all welfare recipients to register for work or job training, arguing that the bill would not create any new jobs for them.

"The work and training requirements in the program will only be a mockery to both welfare recipients and the nation's taxpayers," Meany said. "It does not serve the nation or its people to train the unemployed for jobs that do not exist."

He urged that the federal government become "employer of last resort" to soak up those who can't find private industry jobs.

Ribicoff said he will amend the Nixon plan to create 500,000 public service jobs for welfare clients.

But sources close to Meany indicated he doesn't believe the Nixon welfare plan can be salvaged with amendments.

Meany's criticism appeared to add to the indication of Rep. James G. O'Hara, D-Mich., that Nixon's welfare and companion job training legislation are in for considerable trouble in Congress.

Meany said the government could better wipe out poverty by raising the present $1.60 an hour minimum wage to $2, hiking unemployment insurance, workmen's compensation and Social Security old age and survivors payments, and assuring the poor and unemployed federal jobs at good wages.

Draft Laws Explained

EDITOR'S NOTE: In an effort to create a greater public understanding of the laws and regulations governing the induction of personnel into the Armed Forces, the Selective Service System has prepared a series of pertinent questions and corresponding responses concerning provisions of the draft law. Here is another in the series.

Q. I have been ordered to report for a preinduction examination by my local board. What is the very minimum time I have before being inducted?

A. The minimum time is 21 days after your local board has mailed to you a Statement of Acceptability (DD Form 62), which indicates that you are acceptable for military service as a result of your preinduction examination.

Q. When I reach my 18th birthday I will be in college some distance from my home. Must I go home to register?

A. No. You must register within 5 days of your 18th birthday at any of the more than 4,000 local boards located throughout the country. Consult the telephone directory for the city where you are living to determine the address of the local board nearest you. By calling at that board you will be able to complete your registration which will then be sent to the local board having jurisdiction over the area where your home (line 2 on the registration card) is located. Be sure when you register to give your permanent home address to the registrar.

Q. I am a member of a religious organization opposed to killing in war. I understand there is a provision of the law providing for "non-combatant service." Could you explain?

A. The President has defined "non-combatant services" as service in any unit of the Armed Forces which is unarmed at all times; service in the medical department of any of the Armed Forces, wherever performed; or any other assignment, the primary function of which does not require the use of arms in combat; provided that such other assignment is acceptable to the individual concerned and does not require him to bear arms or to be trained in their use. Therefore if you are classified I-A-O and are inducted, you will be assigned to one of these non-combatant services.

Report Diversion Of $1,056 From Lebanon Institution

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State funds amounting to $1,056 were spent by a former official of the Lebanon Correctional Institution for equipment that never reached the prison, State Auditor Roger Cloud said today.

Named in a special examiner's report was Frank R. Middleton, former supervisor of the Ohio Penal Industries branch of the Lebanon institution. Middleton resigned the post last Feb. 28.

The audit covered a period from Dec. 1, 1966, through April 9, 1969.

It followed an investigation by departmental examiners which indicated that purchases of materials and services had been made for "an individual other than the Lebanon Ohio Penal Industry operation" and paid for with institutional funds, Cloud said.

During 1967 the examiners found 32 items involving questionable purchases of materials and supplies. The report noted that the supervisor could exercise complete control over all direct purchases of less than $100.

"The examination disclosed $1,056.46 in purchases wherein procedures used gave indications that such items were allegedly purchased for personal purposes, or items were missing," the report said.

Purchases included such things as power chisels and drills, lubricating oil, motors and 200 gallons of fuel oil, which examiners said Middleton admitted he "put in his home."

Also named in the findings for recovery of the funds was Middleton's surety, the Buckeye Union Casualty Co. Middleton was covered by a $20,000 blanket bond, Cloud said.

Camille Now Hurricane; Cuba Target

MIAMI (AP) — Tropical Storm Camille blew itself into a hurricane today and aimed a forceful blow at the western end of Cuba.

The National Hurricane Center at Miami said Cuba, west of Pinar del Rio, "should prepare for hurricane force winds and high tides of five to 10 feet on both the north and south coasts."

In its 9 a.m. EDT bulletin, the hurricane center said gale force winds would begin battering Cuba at mid-morning and all of Cuba from Havana west to the end of the Communist island could expect winds of gale force as Camille brushed the western tip of the country.

The hurricane—the second of the 1969 season—was moving toward Cape San Antonio.

"Heavy rains and gales are occurring over most of the Isle of Pines and heavy rains of up to 10 inches are likely from Havana westward," the bulletin said.

Camille packed a wind wallop of 90 miles per hour and the hurricane center said conditions were favorable for further strengthening.

At 9 a.m. Camille was near Latitude 20.9 North, Longitude 83.9 West or about 75 miles from extreme southwestern Cuba and just over 400 miles southwest of Miami.

After passing Cape San Antonio, moving at a pace of 8 m.p.h., the hurricane center said "a slight turn to a more northerly track is forecast after the hurricane reaches the Gulf of Mexico."

Boy 'Fair' After Fire, Explosion

David Weaver, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Weaver, 381 Cedar Heights Road, is listed in "fair" condition at Children's Hospital, Columbus, for treatment of burns suffered Thursday when a trash can exploded.

The accident occurred 1 p.m. Thursday on the Winchester Southern Road, six miles east of Circleville.

According to an investigation conducted by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy Robert Hoover and Sheriff Dwight Radcliff, the explosion was a result of gasoline used to start the fire.

Weaver was visiting with Terry Downing, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Downing, Route 1, Stoutsville.

The boys set out to burn the trash when the explosion occurred. The fire apparently spread from Weaver's trousers. He rolled in the grass to extinguish the blaze.

The government in Belfast said 13 persons—8 in Belfast and 5 elsewhere—were being held on suspicion of being IRA members.

There was an air of ugly tension in Belfast. Many spoke of the possibility of "reprisals" for the deaths, particularly that of a 9-year-old boy.

Police said that of the 112 persons injured 58 were policemen.

Dual Murder And Suicide In Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (AP) — An estranged couple and their 10-year-old son were found shot to death today in their home in the Brentwood area.

Three other children escaped unharmed.

Hamilton county and Springfield township police said it apparently was a double murder and suicide.

The dead were identified as Robert Humphrey, 43, his wife, Nancy Jean, 43, and their son, Jack Robert.

The bodies of Mrs. Humphrey and the boy were found in the living room. Humphrey's body was found on a bed in an upstairs room. Police said he was still holding a revolver.

Officers said they learned Humphrey left here in July for California and returned home early today.

A teen-aged son and girl fled from the house and an eight-year-old boy hid when the shooting occurred.

Arab Saboteurs Hit Israeli Oil Refineries Inside Haifa

HAIFA, Israel (AP) — Arab saboteurs struck again at Israel's vital oil refineries in this port city today, rupturing a pipeline, damaging an electric tower and touching off a fire over a 500-yard area.

Firemen brought the fire under control in 45 minutes after closing a valve that shut off the oil flow.

Police were questioning six persons.

It was the second time in less than two months saboteurs have hit the oil installations. A pipeline complex was blasted in the port compound June 24.

Police said the electric tower and the pipeline were slightly damaged, and the neighborhood was without electricity for about an hour.

Thursday, Egyptian and Israeli artillery battled across the Suez Canal north of Port Suez and three Israeli soldiers were wounded, the Israeli army announced.

At U.N. headquarters in New York, supporters of Lebanon claimed they have the necessary nine votes to get a resolution through the Security Council condemning Israel's air raid Monday on the southern part of Lebanon.

They said the preliminary draft for such a resolution includes a provision holding Israel responsible for loss of life and property in the attack on the Mt. Hermon sector.

Other sources said the United States and Britain had prepared a rival preliminary draft regretting the loss of life from the air raid and calling upon both Israel and Lebanon for strict observance of the cease-fire.

2nd Largest Mead Union May Strike

The second largest labor union at the Mead Corporation in Chillicothe, Wednesday authorized a strike by a 496-39 vote.

The local, 988 (Chillicothe), followed the lead of the largest union local 731 (International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite, and Paper mill workers) in authorizing a strike. Chillicothe rejected Tuesday the company's contract offer. Local 731 authorized the strike Monday after rejecting the contract by the management.

The vote permits union officials to give Mead ten days notice if either union should strike. It was reported unofficially that union leaders plan to give the notice Monday if negotiations do not progress.

The union conflict seems to center around the adjustment schedule. The workers want more money in the second and third years of the schedule instead of more fringe benefits.

The unions have a strike fund for the workers, but it is not known how much money there is in the kitty or how long it could last should the locals strike.

A third Mead local 728 (Construction Workers), who were earlier expected to work beyond their Friday expiration date, will vote today for a strike authorization. The union, which has 30-40 members at the Mead, is voting without receiving a contract proposal from the management.

THE building is to be located on Clark Drive, near the Circleville High School.

The Circleville-Pickaway Corporation is a profit-making group of concerned individuals in the community who are striving for its betterment.

Limited number of shares of stock on the corporation are still available to the public. Anyone interested should contact Bob Kenworthy.

Labor-Democrat Coalition Opens Fire On Nixon Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — A coalition of labor and key Democrats in Congress, taking aim on President Nixon's welfare plan, argue there are better ways to help 22 million welfare recipients and "working poor."

While giving Nixon points for trying, the labor-Democrat coalition Thursday denounced Nixon's $4 billion proposal as little more than a subsidy for low-wage employers.

"The AFL-CIO vigorously opposes the use of federal funds to subsidize the employers of cheap labor," said President

"The work and training requirements in the program will only be a mockery to both welfare recipients and the nation's taxpayers," Meany said. "It does not serve the nation or its people to train the unemployed for jobs that do not exist."

He urged that the federal government become "employer of last resort" to soak up those who can't find private industry jobs.

Ribicoff said he will amend the Nixon plan to create 500,000 public service jobs for welfare clients.

But sources close to Meany indicated he doesn't believe the Nixon welfare plan can be salvaged with amendments.

Meany's criticism appeared to add to the indication of Rep. James G. O'Hara, D-Mich., that Nixon's welfare and companion job training legislation are in for considerable trouble in Congress.

Meany said the government could better wipe out poverty by raising the present $1.60 an hour minimum wage to $2, hiking unemployment insurance, workmen's compensation and Social Security old age and survivors payments, and assuring the poor and unemployed federal jobs at good wages.

Draft Laws Explained

EDITOR'S NOTE: In an effort to create a greater public understanding of the laws and regulations governing the induction of personnel into the Armed Forces, the Selective Service System has prepared a series of pertinent questions and corresponding responses concerning provisions of the draft law. Here is another in the series.

Q. I have been ordered to report for a preinduction examination by my local board. What is the very minimum time I have before being inducted?

A. The minimum time is 21 days after your local board has mailed to you a Statement of Acceptability (DD Form 62), which indicates that you are acceptable for military service as a result of your preinduction examination.

Q. When I reach my 18th birthday I will be in college some distance from my home. Must I go home to register?

A. No. You must register within 5 days of your 18th birthday at any of the more than 4,000 local boards located throughout the country. Consult the telephone directory for the city where you are living to determine the address of the local board nearest you. By calling at that board you will be able to complete your registration which will then be sent to the local board having jurisdiction over the area where your home (line 2 on the registration card) is located. Be sure when you register to give your permanent home address to the registrar.

Q. I am a member of a religious organization opposed to killing in war. I understand there is a provision of the law providing for "non-combatant service." Could you explain?

A. The President has defined "non-combatant services" as service in any unit of the Armed Forces which is unarmed at all times; service in the medical department of any of the Armed Forces, wherever performed; or any other assignment, the primary function of which does not require the use of arms in combat; provided that such other assignment is acceptable to the individual concerned and does not require him to bear arms or to be trained in their use. Therefore if you are classified I-A-O and are inducted, you will be assigned to one of these non-combatant services.

Report Diversion Of $1,056 From Lebanon Institution

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State funds amounting to $1,056 were spent by a former official of the Lebanon Correctional Institution for equipment that never reached the prison, State Auditor Roger Cloud said today.

Named in a special examiner's report was Frank R. Middleton, former supervisor of the Ohio Penal Industries branch of the Lebanon institution. Middleton resigned the post last Feb. 28.

The audit covered a period from Dec. 1, 1966, through April 9, 1969.

It followed an investigation by departmental examiners which indicated that purchases of materials and services had been made for "an individual other than the Lebanon Ohio Penal Industry operation" and paid for with institutional funds, Cloud said.

During 1967 the examiners found 32 items involving questionable purchases of materials and supplies. The report noted that the supervisor could exercise complete control over all direct purchases of less than $100.

"The examination disclosed $1,056.46 in purchases wherein procedures used gave indications that such items were allegedly purchased for personal purposes, or items were missing," the report said.

Purchases included such things as power chisels and drills, lubricating oil, motors and 200 gallons of fuel oil, which examiners said Middleton admitted he "put in his home."

Also named in the findings for recovery of the funds was Middleton's surety, the Buckeye Union Casualty Co. Middleton was covered by a $20,000 blanket bond, Cloud said.

Boy 'Fair' After Fire, Explosion

David Weaver, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Weaver, 381 Cedar Heights Road, is listed in "fair" condition at Children's Hospital, Columbus, for treatment of burns suffered Thursday when a trash can exploded.

The accident occurred 1 p.m. Thursday on the Winchester Southern Road, six miles east of Circleville.

According to an investigation conducted by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy Robert Hoover and Sheriff Dwight Radcliff, the explosion was a result of gasoline used to start the fire.

Weaver was visiting with Terry Downing, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Downing, Route 1, Stoutsville.

The boys set out to burn the trash when the explosion occurred. The fire apparently spread from Weaver's trousers. He rolled in the grass to extinguish the blaze.

Report 5 Dead

The government in Belfast said 13 persons—8 in Belfast and 5 elsewhere—were being held on suspicion of being IRA members.

There was an air of ugly tension in Belfast. Many spoke of the possibility of "reprisals" for the deaths, particularly that of a 9-year-old boy.

Police said that of the 112 persons injured 58 were policemen.

British Home Secretary James Callaghan, who ordered British troops to Londonderry Thursday to restore order in that Catholic center, cut short his vacation and remained in London to keep in touch with the crisis in the six counties of Northern Ireland.

Dual Murder And Suicide In Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (AP) — An estranged couple and their 10-year old son were found shot to death today in their home in the Brentwood area.

Three other children escaped unharmed.

Hamilton county and Springfield township police said it apparently was a double murder and suicide.

The dead were identified as Robert Humphrey, 43, his wife, Nancy Jean, 43, and their son, Jack Robert.

The bodies of Mrs. Humphrey and the boy were found in the living room. Humphrey's body was found on a bed in an upstairs room. Police said he was still holding a revolver.

Officers said they learned Humphrey left here in July for California and returned home early today.

A teen-aged son and girl fled from the house and an eight-year-old boy hid when the shooting occurred.

Thieves Leave Clues To Chemical Robbery

SYDNEY (AP) — Thieves just about cleaned out a Sydney chemist's shop, but left behind 48 bottles of hair cream and a stack of packets of the Pill.

Arab Saboteurs Hit Israeli Oil Refineries Inside Haifa

HAIFA, Israel (AP) — Arab saboteurs struck again at Israel's vital oil refineries in this port city today, rupturing a pipeline, damaging an electric tower and touching off a fire over a 500-yard area.

Firemen brought the fire under control in 45 minutes after closing a valve that shut off the oil flow.

Police were questioning six persons.

It was the second time in less than two months saboteurs have hit the oil installations. A pipeline complex was blasted in the port compound June 24.

Police said the electric tower and the pipeline were slightly damaged, and the neighborhood was without electricity for about an hour.

Thursday, Egyptian and Israeli artillery battled across the Suez Canal north of Port Suez and three Israeli soldiers were wounded, the Israeli army announced.

Egyptian cannon opened fire, a spokesman said, and Israeli units returned the fire.

At U.N. headquarters in New York, supporters of Lebanon claimed they have the necessary nine votes to get a resolution through the Security Council condemning Israel's air raid Monday on the southern part of Lebanon.

They said the preliminary draft for such a resolution includes a provision holding Israel responsible for loss of life and property in the attack on the Mt. Hermon sector.

Other sources said the United States and Britain had prepared a rival preliminary draft regretting the loss of life from the air raid and calling upon both Israel and Lebanon for strict observance of the cease-fire.

2nd Largest Mead Union May Strike

The second largest labor union at the Mead Corporation in Chillicothe, Wednesday authorized a strike by a 496-39 vote.

The local, 988 (Chillicothe), followed the lead of the largest union local 731 (International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite, and Paper Mill Workers) in authorizing a strike. Chillicothe rejected Tuesday the company's contract offer. Local 731 authorized the strike Monday after rejecting the contract by the management.

The vote permits union officials to give Mead ten days notice if either union should strike. It was reported unofficially that union leaders plan to give the notice Monday if negotiations do not progress.

The union conflict seems to center around the adjustment schedule. The workers want more money in the second and third years of the schedule instead of more fringe benefits.

The unions have a strike fund for the workers, but it is not known how much money there is in the kitty or how long it could last should the locals strike.

A third Mead local 728 (Construction Workers), who were earlier expected to work beyond their Friday expiration date, will vote today for a strike authorization. The union, which has 30-40 members at the Mead, is voting without receiving a contract proposal from the management.

Rudolf Resigns As Conductor Of Orchestra

CINCINNATI (AP) — Max Rudolf, conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, is stepping down before the 1969-70 season from the post he has held for 11 years.

Taking the advice of physicians, the 66-year-old music director submitted his resignation Thursday to the executive committee of the symphony which accepted it "regretfully."

When the season opens Oct. 25, Erich Kunzel, assistant conductor, will assume the role of director.

Rudolf is scheduled to take over as head of the opera department at the Curtis Institute in Philadelphia in the fall of 1970 and, at the same time, well-known conductor Thomas Shipper is to become director here.

WCH Firm Is Low Bidder For Care Home

The Sever-Williams construction firm of Washington C. H. was the apparent lowbidder on the Circleville-Pickaway Corporation's extended health care center.

Sever-Williams was one of the six companies to submit bids Thursday night.

Construction of the 60-bed nursing home will begin in 60 days, according to a company spokesman.

The Federal Housing Administration must approve the bid and a contract must be entered before construction can begin.

THE building is to be located on Clark Drive, near the Circleville High School.

The Circleville-Pickaway Corporation is a profit-making group of concerned individuals in the community who are striving for its betterment.

Limited number of shares of stock on the corporation are still available to the public. Anyone interested should contact Bob Kenworthy.

Poison . . .

(Continued from Page 1) ment said the Lockport shipment had been purchased by Jones Chemical Co. of Batavia, N.Y., for processing by Vandemark Industries of Lockport into either a herbicide or synthetic foam.

The shipment bound for Louisiana was purchased by Chemical Commodities Corp., of Olathe, Kan. Its owner, Jerald Gershon, declined to say where in Louisiana the eight-car train was destined.

A spokesman for the Transportation Department said the special permit was required because the tanks had not been tested for at least three years nor are they equipped with a gas tight protective cover.

Phosgene, a combination of carbon monoxide and chlorine, was credited with 80 per cent of the chemical warfare deaths of World War I. It causes a severe and often fatal edema of the lungs when inhaled.

In Lockport, Allan Vandemark, president of the firm which will receive one shipment of the gas, said phosgene is relatively safe. It is used to create chemicals for automotive paints, dyes and plastics, he added.

According To Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Memory is man's best friend. It doesn't die or leave him as other friends may, but remains his boon companion and chief solace all his days. It enables him to drink at any time he wills from the sweet reviving fountain of the past.

Without memory, man is but an aimless vegetable existing in a cheerless night. The more memories he has, the more meaningful his life is.

Your own store of memories is pretty extensive if you can look back and remember when:

There were more people who'd been up in balloons than airplanes.

The collie was one of the most popular dogs in America.

You could win a reputation for repartee by tossing off a fast line such as, "Well, everybody makes mistakes—that's why they put erasers on pencils."

The two most famous mustaches in America adorned the upper lips of President William Howard Taft and Gen. John J. Pershing. The best known beard—and a sedate one it was—belonged to Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes.

A juvenile delinquent was a kid who chalked naughty words, the exact meaning of which he wasn't always sure of, on a schoolyard wall.

If your mother had given you a "sissy" name—Percy, Clarence, Harold, Reginald, Marion—you had to learn to put your dukes up early and often, until the neighborhood gang mercifully conferred an acceptable nickname on you—"Fats," "Butch," "Slug," or "Slats."

Women used more arduous of fabric in a single dress than girls today have in a whole wardrobe of miniskirts.

It started gossip in a small town if the denot loafers saw a married woman get on the front end, and a married man get on the back end, of the morning train to the big city.

Practically everyone could draw a picture of the American flag.

Hot dogs in most places still cost a nickel, and were worth every penny of it.

Teen-agers subsisted largely on butter and sorghum sandwiches and had never heard of pizza pie parlors.

Girls began dating at 16 or 17 instead of 12.

Freedom began for a boy the day his parents let him quit wearing long black stockings and put on a pair of long pants. Mother wept and said, "I've lost my little boy." Father just cleared his throat and looked proud.

Foreign wars were expected to be over in four years or less.

Those were the days! Remember?

Try and Stop Me

AN INFURIATED WIFE was upbraiding her husband for embracing a blonde beauty at a suburban dinner party. "I just was dancing with the girl," protested the husband weakly. "Dancing!" echoed the wife, the while she carefully aimed a lamp at his cranium. "THERE WASN'T ANY MUSIC!"

The hero of Scott Fitzgerald's last important novel, unfinished at his death, was a prototype of one of Hollywood's legendary heroes, Irving Thalberg. Thalberg's equal as a producer never has been found. At MGM he was the man behind the throne for such screen classics as "The Parade," "Mutiny on the Bounty," "Grand Hotel," "The Merry Widow," "The Good Earth," and "A Night at the Opera."

Thalberg never put his name on his productions. He once said "If you have the power to give yourself credit, you don't need it." He died far too soon at the age of 37. Scott Fitzgerald died at 44. Heart ailments felled them both. As Fitzgerald himself said ruefully, "Show me a hero—and I'll show you a tragedy."

A Wall Street kill-joy, never known to smile in the past ten years, had this to say about New Orleans' annual Mardi Gras: "You couldn't get me to attend if they were dancing in the streets!"

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

In a society so filled with crime, it is understandable that scientists are devoting themselves to seeking clues as to why some men are born killers. Herein lies the hope that the prevention of crime, not the punishment alone, can spare lives.

The newer knowledge of genetics tells us that all human cells contain 46 chromosomes, in pairs. It is also known that women have two X chromosomes, while men have an X and a Y. The designation of X and Y to chromosomes is given by their shape when seen under a microscope.

More and more research information points to the fact that the make-up of the chromosomes affects the size, the intelligence, the passivity, and the violence of the adult. Many studies in criminal institutions and in hospitals for the insane point to the fact that an extra Y chromosome was contained in the blood of many of the inmates. An interesting study is in process at the Downstate Medical Center in New York City. Dr. James B. Hamilton and his colleagues are studying the chromosome content of fish in an effort to learn techniques of eliminating the abnormal extra Y chromosome. Dr. Hamilton is piecing together information about the relationship between aggressive fish and their neighbors. These "killer fish," as he likes to call them, can be bred with chromosome variations.

It will not be a difficult transition to learn who are the potential aggressors in our society and help restrain them to become productive. Aggressive behavior and hostility when considered as an illness can be approached by prevention, early diagnosis and treatment. I do not mean in any way to condone a social behavior, but rather to hope that it can be avoided in those who are congenitally not responsible for it.

Utopian Peace Proposal

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Several years ago a former lieutenant colonel in the U.S. Air Force, Howard Kurtz, came to me with his idea for a "two-platoon strategy" for enforcing world peace. Part One of his proposal was to turn over all offensive nuclear weapons to a world peace-keeping organization. But, just to make sure that the world would not become an engine of tyranny on its own—an Orwellian 1984 "Big Brother" monstrosity—Mr. Kurtz suggested leaving all defensive weapons in the hands of the separate nations.

The double-barrelled proposition impressed me as Utopian but interesting, and I wrote a column about it that attempted to blend sympathy and skepticism. The trouble with the Kurtz idea, at the time he first offered it, was that no good defense against nuclear attack seemed possible. Thus the proposal to let each nation keep control of its defense to circumvent any propensity to tyranny on the part of a world offensive monopoly was essentially meaningless.

Undeterred by objections, however, Mr. Kurtz and his wife, the Reverend Harriet B. Kurtz, have been busy through the past few years talking up their project through the medium of their War Control Planners, Inc. of Chappaqua, New York. When they speak of "the collapse of U.S. Global Strategy," they make sense. Our theory of power has become useless because we don't dare use even the small, almost infinitesimal, part of that power represented by tactical nuclear weapons. Every foreign office in the world knows us for the bluffers that we are. Luckily for us, every astute diplomat knows that the Soviets are bluffing, too. Nobody in Washington or Moscow dares suggest pulling even the smallest nuclear tactical trigger. The two cats have been belled, so the mice play everywhere.

Mr. Kurtz puts it well when he says "the theory of power has collapsed. Danger has become global and total. It is as though the people of all nations are crowded into a single gas-filled room. The explosive continues to pour into the room... in this pre-explosive atmosphere, obsolete commanders on both sides threaten to strike matches to 'deter' each other... boasting of the righteousness of their postures because the room has not yet blown up. A totally new, unprecedented concept of strategic power and strategic initiative is imperative. There is no possible way the sinking national security can be regained by the open-ended escalation of the power to exterminate humanity. Similarly, there is no possible way the national security can be regained by turning weak in the face of the enemy bent upon world domination."

What Mr. Kurtz has sketched is not a solution but a dilemma. His "two-platoon" idea of setting up a world monopoly of offensive nuclear power and letting the separate nations keep control of their own defensive armaments is still too vague in its outlines, too Utopian in its hopes. Red China, for instance is not going to pool its offensive nuclear capabilities with those of other nations in a "global armed force management system." But for the first time since the mushroom cloud rose over Hiroshima, a "two-platoon" solution along the Kurtz lines is becoming theoretically possible. The extent to which the "two-platoon" idea might be made palatable to the U.S. and to Soviet Russia depends entirely on the practicability of creating effective anti-ballistic missile systems. If it were once proved possible to track down and kill an offensive nuclear missile, whether carrying multiple warheads or not, before it had arrived within dangerous proximity of a target area, then the big members of the nuclear club could afford to yield control of their offensive weapons to a UN Safety Authority. The "two-platoon" division between offense and defense would become diplomatically acceptable.

Most of our pacifists have been against anti-ballistic missile experimentation and deployment. For the life of me, I can't discover any logic or common sense in their thinking. It would be the biggest boon in the world for the peacemakers if a successful ABM could be developed. It would make Mr. Kurtz's ingenious "two-platoon" idea negotiable.

Mike Nichols

AP Television-Movie Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Outside, the August sun beat down on the movie lot. Inside his Paramount office, Mike Nichols seemed glacially cool, as always. His $15-million adventure seemed to have changed him not at all.

The name of the film is "Catch 22." It is based on the wild, masterful World War II novel by Joseph Heller, a disoriented tale that seemed to defy translation to the screen. The property passed through several hands until producer John Calley enlisted Nichols as director and Buck Henry as writer. The pair had collaborated on "The Graduate," to the good fortune of all concerned.

But how could "Catch 22" be converted to film?

Expensively, as it turned out. "It's the kind of picture that couldn't be done for two, four or six million dollars," Nichols commented. "Oh, perhaps it could have been put together in an inexpensive, Mickey Mouse kind of way, but that would have been tragic."

"When I told the people at the studio what it would cost, I explained that I didn't like spending that much money any more than they did. I think I would have been relieved if they had

Mayor's Report

By Mayor

Richard L. Gerhardt

The City has been deluged with telephone calls concerning flooding in several areas in the city, especially in the areas along Hargus Creek. Substantial steps have been taken to alleviate the danger of this very serious problem.

After last year's May flood, a committee of interested and concerned citizens from the city and county, with the assistance of Don Archer and George Hamrick, formed the Hargus-Hominy Creek Watershed Committee. This committee set out to seek the alleviation of flooding in that area. Just as everything else that is done properly, however, a good plan must be made before beginning to act. Questions as to what would be the best method of stopping the flooding must be answered. If a reservoir is to be built, where should it be? If a reservoir is built, how big should it be? How much would it cost, and how could such a project be paid for? You can not just decide to build a dam and reservoir and go out and do it.

As many of those in the area affected might recall, earlier this year many citizens were asked to fill out a questionnaire concerning flooding on their property. The questionnaires have since been compiled and an application drawn up. Both the city, by council resolution, and the county by commissioner resolution have pledged support for this project.

On Sept. 3 a public hearing will be held to determine the need for such a project. If a need is found, funds to draw up the detailed plans on how to stop the flooding will be made available. Among those things which might be made part of the plan is the building of a dam and reservoir and the cleaning, dredging, widening, and straightening of the creek beds. After the plans are drawn up, construction can begin.

Many people have asked that the storm sewers in their area be enlarged. While in some cases this might be of help, in most instances the storm sewers are adequate if the creeks were not so high during the critical periods. The problem of enlarging storm sewers is further complicated by the fact that the only place to discharge the water would be back into the creek. One of the areas where there seems to be some misunderstanding is who owns the creek itself. In most areas, the landowner adjacent to the bank of the creek owns half way out into the creek. The creek is not owned by the city or state.

There are also areas in other parts of the city which experience near-flooding conditions every so often. For the most part these areas are known and solutions to improving the conditions are underway.

Whenever we get four inches of rain in less than three hours as we recently did, no storm sewer system can be expected to be fully adequate. This I will personally attest to as my home on Franklin St. had eighteen inches of water in the basement and six inches of water standing in the front yard.

While I am sure that this will not answer all of the questions being asked, nor will it satisfy completely all the concerns raised, hopefully it indicates that something is being done by interested citizens, by Council, by the County Commissioners, and by myself to try to solve this dangerous problem. This Committee and those involved have been working as fast as possible in processing all the necessary applications and forms, and we are consciously trying to hurry everyone involved. The problem is not one which can be solved in an hour, a day, or several days, but be assured that it will be solved and as fast as humanly possible.

improvements, they will be forced to submit to an Urban Bank, or some similar federal agency for funds, with federal strings attached. Where does the Federal Government get this money plus the costs of operation of a completely new division of Federal Bureau of Investigation, easily the size of HUD or PHA? Again from the only source — the taxpayer. We, the people, are the local government, the state government, and the federal government and we pay all the bills, here and in Washington.

We have all heard of the so-called taxpayers' revolt in the United States. This revolt shows up greater on the local level where the tax payer can take direct retaliation towards higher Federal and State taxes by voting "NO" on a much-needed local issue. This is his only direct attack against higher taxes. The average taxpayer forgets that a letter written to his senator can also cast a ballot against higher taxation.

I urge you NOW to write to Senators Young and Saxbe urging defeat of any proposals that would in any way, directly or indirectly, increase the cost of borrowing at the local level. The removal of tax exemption on municipal bonds is just another increase in local taxation without any local benefit or authorization.

Take away tax exemption of municipal bonds and local government is dependent on Washington cash subsidies. The real issue here is one of idealism rather than dollars and is one of local home rule vs. centralism.

Numerous questions from my readers are directed at the safety of the use of saccharin and cyclamates. As frequently as I mention these substitutes for sugar, new letters appear, filled with anxiety.

The National Academy of Scientists is one of the most responsible organizations of its kind in the world. It has submitted an intensive report to the Food and Drug Administration. These are some of the important points: 1. Five grams of cyclamate a day is not considered a hazard to an adult. This is based on weight rather than age. A safe amount would be about three to four grams a day in an adult and about one and a half grams for a child. 2. No adverse effects were found when such levels of consumption were used. In laboratory animals, there were no unusual birth defects or tumor formations. 3. A study has been suggested to seek the possible relationship between the ingestion of cyclamate and changes in chromosome content of cells. There is little evidence that there is now any dangerous aspects in this relationship. 4. Some unusual symptoms in the intestinal tract and changes of the skin have been attributed to saccharin. The National Academy of Sciences has definitely lifted the veil of anxiety off both saccharin and the cyclamates. Further studies are in progress. My own reaction is that sugar is a highly nourishing, non-dangerous substitute for itself. There are not enough calories in sugar to balance the fear of the substitutes.

is becoming theoretically possible.

The extent to which the "two-platoon" idea might be made palatable to the U.S. and to Soviet Russia depends entirely on the practicability of creating effective anti-ballistic missile systems. If it were once proved possible to track down and kill an offensive nuclear missile, whether carrying multiple warheads or not, before it had arrived within dangerous proximity of a target area, then the big members of the nuclear club could afford to yield control of their offensive weapons to a UN Safety Authority. The "two-platoon" division between offense and defense would become diplomatically acceptable.

Most of our pacifists have been against anti-ballistic missile experimentation and deployment. For the life of me, I can't discover any logic or common sense in their thinking. It would be the biggest boon in the world for the peacemakers if a successful ABM could be developed. It would make Mr. Kurtz's ingenious "two-platoon" idea negotiable.

Mike Nichols

By BOB THOMAS

AP Television-Movie Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Outside, the August sun beat down on the movie lot. Inside his Paramount office, Mike Nichols seemed glacially cool, as always. His $15-million adventure seemed to have changed him not at all.

The name of the film is "Catch 22." It is based on the wild, masterful World War II novel by Joseph Heller, a disoriented tale that seemed to defy translation to the screen. The property passed through several hands until producer John Calley enlisted Nichols as director and Buck Henry as writer. The pair had collaborated on "The Graduate," to the good fortune of all concerned.

But how could "Catch 22" be converted to film?

Expensively, as it turned out. "It's the kind of picture that couldn't be done for two, four or six million dollars," Nichols commented. "Oh, perhaps it could have been put together in an inexpensive, Mickey Mouse kind of way, but that would have been tragic."

"When I told the people at the studio what it would cost, I explained that I didn't like spending that much money any more than they did. I think I would have been relieved if they had said no. I told them it would have been a helluva lot easier for me to make a picture about a boy and a girl in a bedroom." Paramount preferred "Catch 22," and Nichols began filming Jan. 2 in Mexico, which doubles for the Mediterranean air base. The company moved to Rome, then to Hollywood where the process photography is now finishing.

"We have only gone a million and a half over budget," Nichols remarked. "Originally we planned to spend $13½ million. We ran into problems in Mexico that we never anticipated. Technical things mostly, like explosions and fires. It gets to be a problem when something goes wrong during a fire scene: you need to make another shot but meanwhile the building has burned down."

With the finish of production, Nichols has his work ahead of him: six months in the cutting room. "I haven't been able to cut a foot of film," he said. "Until we came to Hollywood, we were shooting six days a week, twelve hours a day. There was not time."

Nichols expects to trim the mass of film down to two hours and 15 minutes.

Mayor's Report

By Mayor

Richard L. Gerhardt

The City has been deluged with telephone calls concerning flooding in several areas in the city, especially in the areas along Hargus Creek. Substantial steps have been taken to alleviate the danger of this very serious problem.

After last year's May flood, a committee of interested and concerned citizens from the city and county, with the assistance of Don Archer and George Hamrick, formed the Hargus-Hominy Creek Watershed Committee. This committee set out to seek the alleviation of flooding in that area. Just as everything else that is done properly, however, a good plan must be made before beginning to act. Questions as to what would be the best method of stopping the flooding must be answered. If a reservoir is to be built, where should it be? If a reservoir is built, how big should it be? How much would it cost, and how could such a project be paid for? You can not just decide to build a dam and reservoir and go out and do it.

As many of those in the area affected might recall, earlier this year many citizens were asked to fill out a questionnaire concerning flooding on their property. The questionnaires have since been compiled and an application drawn up. Both the city, by council resolution, and the county by commissioner resolution have pledged support for this project.

On Sept. 3 a public hearing will be held to determine the need for such a project. If a need is found, funds to draw up the detailed plans on how to stop the flooding will be made available. Among those things which might be made part of the plan is the building of a dam and reservoir and the cleaning, dredging, widening, and straightening of the creek beds. After the plans are drawn up, construction can begin.

Many people have asked that the storm sewers in their area be enlarged. While in some cases this might be of help, in most instances the storm sewers are adequate if the creeks were not so high during the critical periods. The problem of enlarging storm sewers is further complicated by the fact that the only place to discharge the water would be back into the creek. One of the areas where there seems to be some misunderstanding is who owns the creek itself. In most areas, the landowner adjacent to the bank of the creek owns half way out into the creek. The creek is not owned by the city or state.

There are also areas in other parts of the city which experience near-flooding conditions every so often. For the most part these areas are known and solutions to improving the conditions are underway.

Whenever we get four inches of rain in less than three hours as we recently did, no storm sewer system can be expected to be fully adequate. This I will personally attest to as my home on Franklin St. had eighteen inches of water in the basement and six inches of water standing in the front yard.

While I am sure that this will not answer all of the questions being asked, nor will it satisfy completely all the concerns raised, hopefully it indicates that something is being done by interested citizens, by Council, by the County Commissioners, and by myself to try to solve this dangerous problem. This Committee and those involved have been working as fast as possible in processing all the necessary applications and forms, and we are consciously trying to hurry everyone involved. The problem is not one which can be solved in an hour, a day, or several days, but be assured that it will be solved and as fast as humanly possible.

of beauty and peace in the city; a parishoner insists on the erection of a revolving neon cross atop the steeple. He hopes to integrate his flock and takes a courageous stand before the community, only to find he has slipped into the larger scheme of a bigot. Throughout the book, Pat carries on a conversation with the Lord: "Why are my missionaries so fat, Pat?" "It's all that pottage we have to eat, Lord."

"Theodora" by Samuel Edwards. Theodora was the wife of the emperor Justinian, who ruled from Constantinople in the sixth century. This is a fictionalized account of her life. Under Roman law, Theodora has been a courtesan, forced to wear scarlet robes because her mother was a harlot. When she and Justinian mounted the thrones, she took an active interest in affairs of state. Because of her background, she sympathized with the common people, women in particular. In many ways she was able to improve their lot. She was fiercely ambitious and utterly ruthless in dealing with her enemies, maneuvering behind the court scenes to do away with those she mistrusted. This is a good picture of Roman life, probably well researched. Theodora's story moves along swiftly from first to last. Good historical fiction.

"What I'm Going To Do, I Think" by L. Woiwade. This is an uneasy book, almost spooky. On the surface, it is a rather confidential account of a honeymoon in Michigan's beautiful north country. But a strange undercurrent flows through the action, forbidding, a warning of unspoken troubles. Deeply in love, the couple spend lazy summer days at the bride's grandparents' summer cabin, finding pleasure in fixing up the grounds and in the establishment of daily routines in their new marriage. Flashbacks reveal that although they have lived together for a long time, neither has been entirely faithful to the other. Mr. Woiwade is superb in his evocation of mood. Without obvious descriptive passages he creates a temper, a climate that the reader is forced to experience.

"Cincinnati Scenes" by Caroline Williams. This is a presentation of part re-printed and part new sketches of the Queen City. Many of the drawings have appeared on the editorial pages of the Sunday Cincinnati Inquirer over a period of several years. Each picture is accompanied by a brief commentary which tells some history of the subject. Many of the bridges, buildings, stairways depicted are no longer in existence, having been bulldozed in the interest of city planning and progress. Miss Williams' sketches are exquisite and will be enjoyed by anyone. Those who know Cincinnati will find them pure delight.

Jerry Graham, 37, of Buckeye Lake, Ohio, also posted a $110 appeal bond following his conviction in city court on charges of carrying a concealed weapon. A ten-day jail sentence was postponed pending the appeal.

Graham surrendered quietly after a brief struggle with security guards and police, during which one officer commented "he threw me across the hallway like I was a potato chip."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Personal income rose sharply in July with a federal pay increase the largest component, the Commerce Department said today.

The department's Office of Business Economics said the $6 billion July advance, to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $753.3 billion, matched its revised June increase and was about $1 billion higher than the average monthly gain in the first half of the year. For the first seven months, the nation's personal income averaged $735.3 billion at an annual rate, $60.4 billion or 9 per cent above the comparable period last year.

Most of the July increase, $5 billion, was wage and salary disbursements, which rose to $513.5 billion. The main feature of the payroll gain was a $3 billion boost in government payrolls—about $2.5 billion attributable to the third and final stage of the federal pay raise of December 1967. The remainder was attributed to the continuing expansion in state and local payrolls.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — If the name Laura Nyro rings no bells and if you think the Bubble Gum Company makes something for chewing, a new television series called "Music Scene" will count as educational television.

The ABC variety show is not for the elderly squares of the nation—by definition almost all of us in those twilight years after 30. It is for, and largely created by, young people. And while it is not expected to hook the oldest, it may help them understand what interests that younger generation.

"Music Scene" will concentrate on contemporary comedy and music. Young, largely unknown comedians with ability to improvise will handle humor that is often topical. The musical staff is studying record sales charts the way another generation scans stock market lists.

"We listen to literally hundreds of records a week," said co-producer Ken Fritz, who confesses unhappily to being 31. "We tune in the underground radio stations—FM stations with disc jockeys who really know hard rock and don't care much about commercials. We visit the little night spots looking for kids without much experience but with talent. We talk to people."

Fritz apparently is able to tap the mysterious world of the teens and early twenties.

"Most older people never knew anything about it, but we found that for almost two years now kids as young as 12 and 13 from Malibu to New York, were carrying around Laura Nyro's albums," said Fritz, adding kindly that Miss Nyro is a singer who has rarely if ever, appeared on prime-time television. "We would never have found the Bubble Gum Company or those very young rock groups like the Ohio Express or the 1910 Fruit Gum Company if we hadn't run into them on the underground radio stations."

The series will not just spotlight new talent. Fritz also expects to present musical stars like Kate Smith and Bing Crosby to show their contributions and he is also interested in the superstars of the day: the Beatles, the Rolling Stones, Johnny Cash, O. C. Smith and others.

Fritz, recently a full partner of the Smothers Brothers in their lucrative television, stage production, talent management, recording and real estate ventures, is eager to get away from the ruts into which he said variety shows have fallen.

"We'll have none of that opening comedy monologue by the host—in fact, there won't be a host," he said. "We'll go for intimate comedy—sketches, blackouts, close-ups—to introduce the musical numbers. Of course, entertainment comes first, but we also want the comedy to really say something."

ABC hunting for something that might stand up against NBC's "Laugh-In," has the 45-minute show at the head of its Monday night lineup.

Localities Attend World Conference

On Monday Lt. Col. and Mrs. George Macklin of Mint Hill, near Laurelville, returned home after an 11 day automobile trip to Salt Lake City, Utah, where they attended the World Conference on Records and World Convention in Genealogy.

This first world meeting on these subjects was in session from Aug. 5 through the 8th. More than 7,000 genealogists, archivists, librarians, historians, microfilmers, demographers, sociologists, government personnel, newspaper men and interested researchers from 50 countries throughout the world were present at the conference. There were 207 separate seminars conducted by more than 280 specialists from the United States and 35 other countries spread throughout the 6 inhabited continents of the earth.

The principal interest of Colonel and Mrs. Macklin (the former Ruth Morris) was the genealogical portion of the conference where the lecturers gave out authoritative information on the possible sources of data and the preparation of family histories.

While enroute to and from Utah, Colonel and Mrs. Macklin stopped to visit relatives in Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Colorado and Wyoming, including J. P. Pontius, president of the National Pontius Assn. and one of the leading genealogists in the United States.

Job Corps Youths Still Jobless

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration is having a hard time living up to its promise—to find jobs or new training for young men and women caught in the closing of 59 Job Corps centers last April.

Latest information from the Labor Department indicates 5,527 still are unplaced out of the 6,301 enrollees at the closed centers who asked for help in getting jobs or more training.

The delay in placing them is running up unexpected costs for the department, which is paying each youngster up to $51 a week to help tide them over.

At last count, 3,625 were getting the stipend—costing the program about $500,000 a month.

The other 1,902 enrollees haven't even been processed yet.

The department also is running behind on plans for 30 new centers to take the place of some of those that were closed.

Last May 8 Secretary George P. Shultz told Congress he expected to have proposals developed for most of the centers by July, with as many as half of them funded this summer.

But in a progress report this week to the House Education and Labor Committee, Shultz said contracts have been executed for only three—in Honolulu; Phoenix, Ariz., and Edison, N.J. The Honolulu and New Jersey centers will use facilities of former Job Corps centers that were closed.

Shultz mentioned only three other sites as even being under consideration at the present time.

Figures on displaced enrollees furnished by Shultz showed that those at conservation centers that were shut down have had a harder time adjusting to the new situation than men and women in urban centers.

Of 3,509 in the two men's centers when they were closed, only 526 requested help in getting jobs or new training assignments. The rest either graduated, went to other centers or dropped out.

Out of 8,583 men in conservation centers, 4,646 asked for help and most of them still are waiting for it.

Mrs. Nixon Shows House Fixed Up At 'Small' Cost

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Pat Nixon showed off the redecorated Spanish-style oceanfront Western White House and told how she tried to keep expenses down and make the place "light and airy."

"I try not to be extravagant," the President's wife said Thursday as she took reporters on a tour of the $340,000, 14-room, five-bath Nixon home set amid cypress, palm and eucalyptus trees.

She said she tried to make use of French provincial furniture the Nixons had in their New York apartment, painting things "to make them fresh and new."

From the six-hole golf course and blue-tiled, scallop-edged swimming pool to the President's red-and-white bedroom with a Vietnam painting over the bed, Mrs. Nixon said, "I love it."

With a minimum of time on the project—"We did it all in one day"—Mrs. Nixon put to work Los Angeles interior decorators Cannel and Chaffin to create a predominately yellow-and-white color scheme with accents of royal blue.

The major improvement, Mrs. Nixon said, was making the place "light and airy" by painting the heavy wooden ceiling beams white, replacing venetian blinds with white shutters and cutting back shrubbery to enhance the Pacific ocean view. The yellow living room looks out on yellow marigolds in the garden and has three high arched windows for a view of the sea.

Every room has a white telephone and Nixon's has red ones, too.

Dear Abby: Her Fortunes Upset Hubby!

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: If a wife likes to go to fortune-tellers and has her own money, I don't see where her husband has the right to forbid her to go!

I went to one that really fascinated me, and when I came home and told my husband about it, he threw a king-sized fit. He said they are all a bunch of fakers, and people who go to them are suckers.

Abby, I work and earn my own money, so I can't see where my husband has anything to say about how I spend it.

I am not saying that this fortune-teller got everything right, but the first time I went there she called me by my name and she had no way of knowing I was coming as I made no appointment. So, if she is such a phony, how do you account for that?

LIKES FORTUNE-TELLERS. DEAR ABBY: There are tricks to every trade, you can be sure, and if I knew the answer to that, I'd be a fortune-teller.

DEAR ABBY: Please don't send me to my minister or doctor about this because I just couldn't face them with it.

I am a 27-year-old, recently married man. My wife is a nice girl with whom I went with for nearly two years. All this time I never laid a hand on her. Don't get me wrong, I am no angel. I laid my hands on plenty of others. They were not the type I wanted for a wife.

My problem is that I love my wife, but I can't perform my husbandly duties. I don't know how else to say this, but I am no man at all with her. I never had this problem with the tramps I went with. What is wrong with me, and what can I do about it?

ASHAMED AND EMBARRASSED

DEAR ABBY: (Your "hang up" is "nice" girls. Your mother (or father) probably told you that "nice" girls were not for laying hands on, so now, even tho it is perfectly all right, you've been "conditioned" to react negatively to "nice" girls. Don't be ashamed to discuss it with your family doctor. He's familiar with the problem and will direct you to the professional help you need.

DEAR ABBY: After my fiancée and I sent out our wedding invitations we received word from relatives "requesting" that certain other people (naturally THEIR relatives) be invited, too. As a favor to the first person who made such a request we sent an invitation to her son. Now it appears that we failed to send one to her DAUGHTER, too, and the whole family is up in arms and taking sides. The fact that the mother failed to mention her daughter's existence is denied, and now we are made out to be the ogres.

We've sent "last minute" invitations and have written letters of "apology" explaining the oversight, and hopefully things are being smoothed out. But where do people get the nerve to call and demand invitations for their relatives whom we do not even know?

We have received any number of such requests and I am disgusted. By the way, it's only two days before the wedding, and guess who the only people are who have not responded or indicated in any way that they are coming?

Storms Hit Texas Area, Southeast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thunderstorms hammered the Southern Plains and the Southeast today unleashing an assortment of wind, heavy rain and hail.

Nearly 3 inches of rain poured into Austin, Tex., during the night following a second straight day of record high temperatures.

The mercury hit 104 in Austin Thursday. Hail and winds up to 60 miles an hour accompanied the storm.

Heavy thunderstorms also ranged over the Florida peninsula. Lightning damage was reported at Bartow, east of Tampa, and nearly an inch of rain washed West Palm Beach in the predawn hours.

Isolated storms hit portions of the Northern Rockies. Winds of more than 60 miles an hour lashed Great Falls, Mont., during a thunderstorm. Light rain dampened parts of the Pacific Northwest as a new cool front moved into that region.

Warm and muggy weather dominated large areas of the nation and temperatures in the 70s and 80s were common before daybreak. Readings ranged from 51 at San Francisco to 97 at Blythe, Calif.

Rhodes To Meet Armstrong Group

WPAKONETA, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes comes here tonight for the second time this week to meet with the Neil Armstrong Museum Fund Committee.

The group is trying to raise $500,000 in private donations to help finance the $1 million museum. The state is furnishing the other $500,000.

Earlier today, Rhodes' itinerary called for stops in Defiance, which is celebrating its 175th anniversary, and Burbank in Wayne County, which is kicking off its centennial celebration.

7 Counties Benefit From Federal Grant

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Seven counties participating in Ohio's Demonstration Health Project will benefit from a $99,736 federal grant awarded the State Department of Health Thursday.

The money will be used to help finance a 12-month comprehensive speech and hearing conservation program in Athens, Gallia, Hocking, Jackson, Lawrence, Meigs and Vinton counties.

Record Fair Attendance

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes says State Fair officials are shooting for a record two million attendance this year.

And he told newsmen on a shuttlebus preview tour of the fair Thursday that he wants to get more money for junior fair exhibitors in the annual livestock competitions.

"We're going to get $15,000 for the top steer," Rhodes predicted. He said the livestock sale is the big event for junior fairgoers.

Rhodes pointed out the sites from the seat of a tractor as his 3-year-old grandson, Ricky Moore, rode on his knee.

He said the 12-day exposition, which opens Aug. 21, "will be the greatest in the nation."

Fair Manager Jerry Kaltenbach showed newsmen new additions, including paving, tall red and white towers for cable-car rides and air-conditioned restaurants.

Ohio Children Lacking Vitamins

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State University researchers have discovered that children in Vinton and Meigs counties, two of Ohio's Appalachia counties suffer from shortage of iron and vitamin C.

The findings were published in the Ohio State Medical Journal as part of a national study of pre-schoolers' nutrition by the university.

The researchers found that serious hunger and malnutrition did not exist among the random sampling of children examined, but they did conclude that some children were in a risk area biochemically.

How Weather Looks Today

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary for Ohio:

After one of the longest dry spells of the summer, rain finally fell on Ohio again.

At 6 a. m. today, Zanesville reported very light rain while radar showed other showers in that part of the state.

Temperatures remained on the warm side during the night under partly cloudy skies. Readings around the state at dawn generally ranged from 65 to 70. Marietta, at 74, was an exception.

Typical summer weather is in store for the state the next two days as temperatures remain in the upper 80s, even reaching 90 in a few places. Increasingly moist air will support more and more showers as time goes on, especially in central and southern sections tonight and through out Ohio Saturday.

FORECASTS

CENTRAL, EAST CENTRAL, SOUTHWEST, SOUTHEAST OHIO—Partly cloudy and continued warm tonight and Saturday. A chance of showers Saturday, possibly beginning late tonight. Highs Saturday 85-90. Outlook Sunday: Partly cloudy and warm.

NORTHWEST, NORTHEAST OHIO—Partly cloudy and continued warm tonight and Saturday. A chance of showers Saturday. Highs Saturday 85-90. Lows tonight 65-70. Outlook Sunday: Partly sunny and not as warm.

All 99 House seats are up for grabs next year and 17 of the 33 Senate seats will be on the ballot. The name of the game will be "don't rock the boat."

The attitude will be good for such proposals as a code of ethics bill but bad for legislation such as the governor's Department of Public Safety proposal.

Plans already are afoot to beef up the ethics bill to requiring public officials to disclose their income.

It is a good election year tactic. It will be much harder for senators to vote against the bill than it would have been during the first session.

Although House members didn't like the public disclosure idea during the first session, their attitudes could change in between.

That's the time a politician leans from personal to public preferences. Newspapers have been editorially clamoring for the bill for months.

On the other hand, the same attitude creates additional problems for the governor's idea of putting the Highway Patrol and other crime-fighting units under a cabinet level post.

The bill, also expected to be kept alive until the second session, had the opposition of organized labor and the Buckeye State Sheriffs Association.

Two Ohio assistant attorneys general, Robert Zitgo and James Rattan, have been cleared to be assistant U. S. attorneys under William W. Milligan of Sidney.

Although Milligan has yet to be officially named to the post, it is known that Zitgo and Rattan have undergone the necessary federal security checks.

Although U. S. Sen. William B. Saxbe appeared to have lost out in his first choice for the job, Robert Boyd, he apparently has emerged victorious in an intra-party squabble.

Both Zitgo and Rattan were assistants to Saxbe when he was Ohio attorney general. Milligan held a similar post.

U. S. Rep. Samuel Devine of Columbus fought Boyd's appointment. Devine wanted another man, a former FBI-agent friend.

But U. S. Sen. Stephen M. Young, a Democrat, teamed with Saxbe to block the Devine threat to senatorial patronage privileges.

The loser may have been Boyd, but it wasn't Saxbe.

"There was no way Devine could have won that battle," State Rep. Keith McNamara of Columbus commented.

But if Devine's aim was primarily to keep Boyd out of the post, then he could be looking at it as a victory too.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Her Fortunes Upset Hubby!

DEAR ABBY: If a wife likes to go to fortune-tellers and has her own money, I don't see where her husband has the right to forbid her to go!

I went to one that really fascinated me, and when I came home and told my husband about it, he threw a king-sized fit. He said they are all a bunch of fakers, and people who go to them are suckers.

Abby, I work and earn my own money, so I can't see where my husband has anything to say about how I spend it.

I am not saying that this fortune-teller got everything right, but the first time I went there she called me by my name and she had no way of knowing I was coming as I made no appointment. So, if she is such a phony, how do you account for that?

LIKES FORTUNE-TELLERS
DEAR ABBY: There are tricks to every trade, you can be sure, and if I knew the answer to that, I'd be a fortune-teller.

DEAR ABBY: Please don't send me to my minister or doctor about this because I just couldn't face them with it.

I am a 27-year-old, recently married man. My wife is a nice girl with whom I went with for nearly two years. All this time I never laid a hand on her. Don't get me wrong, I am an angel. I laid my hands on plenty of others. They were not the type I wanted for a wife.

My problem is that I love my wife, but I can't perform my husbandly duties. I don't know how else to say this, but I am no man at all with her. I never had this problem with the tramps I went with. What is wrong with me, and what can I do about it?

ASHAMED AND EMBARRASSED
DEAR ABBY: (Your "hang up" is "nice" girls. Your mother (or father) probably told you that "nice" girls were not for laying hands on, so now, even tho it is perfectly all right, you've been "conditioned" to react negatively to "nice" girls. Don't be ashamed to discuss it with your family doctor. He's familiar with the problem and will direct you to the professional help you need.

DEAR ABBY: After my fiancé and I sent out our wedding invitations we received word from relatives "requesting" that certain other people (naturally THEIR relatives) be invited, too. As a favor to the first person who made such a request we sent an invitation to her son. Now it appears that we failed to send one to her DAUGHTER, too, and the whole family is up in arms and taking sides. The fact that the mother failed to mention her daughter's existence is denied, and now we are made out to be the ogres.

We've sent "last minute" invitations and have written letters of "apology" explaining the oversight, and hopefully things are being smoothed out. But where do people get the nerve to call and demand invitations for their relatives whom we do not even know?

We have received any number of such requests and I am disgusted. By the way, it's only two days before the wedding, and guess who the only people are who have not responded or indicated in any way that they are coming?

5 More Ohioans Killed In Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department reported Thursday that five more Ohioans have been killed in action in Vietnam.

They were: Marine Lance Cpl. William J. Durham, son of Betty Durham, 524 Townsend Ave., Columbus.

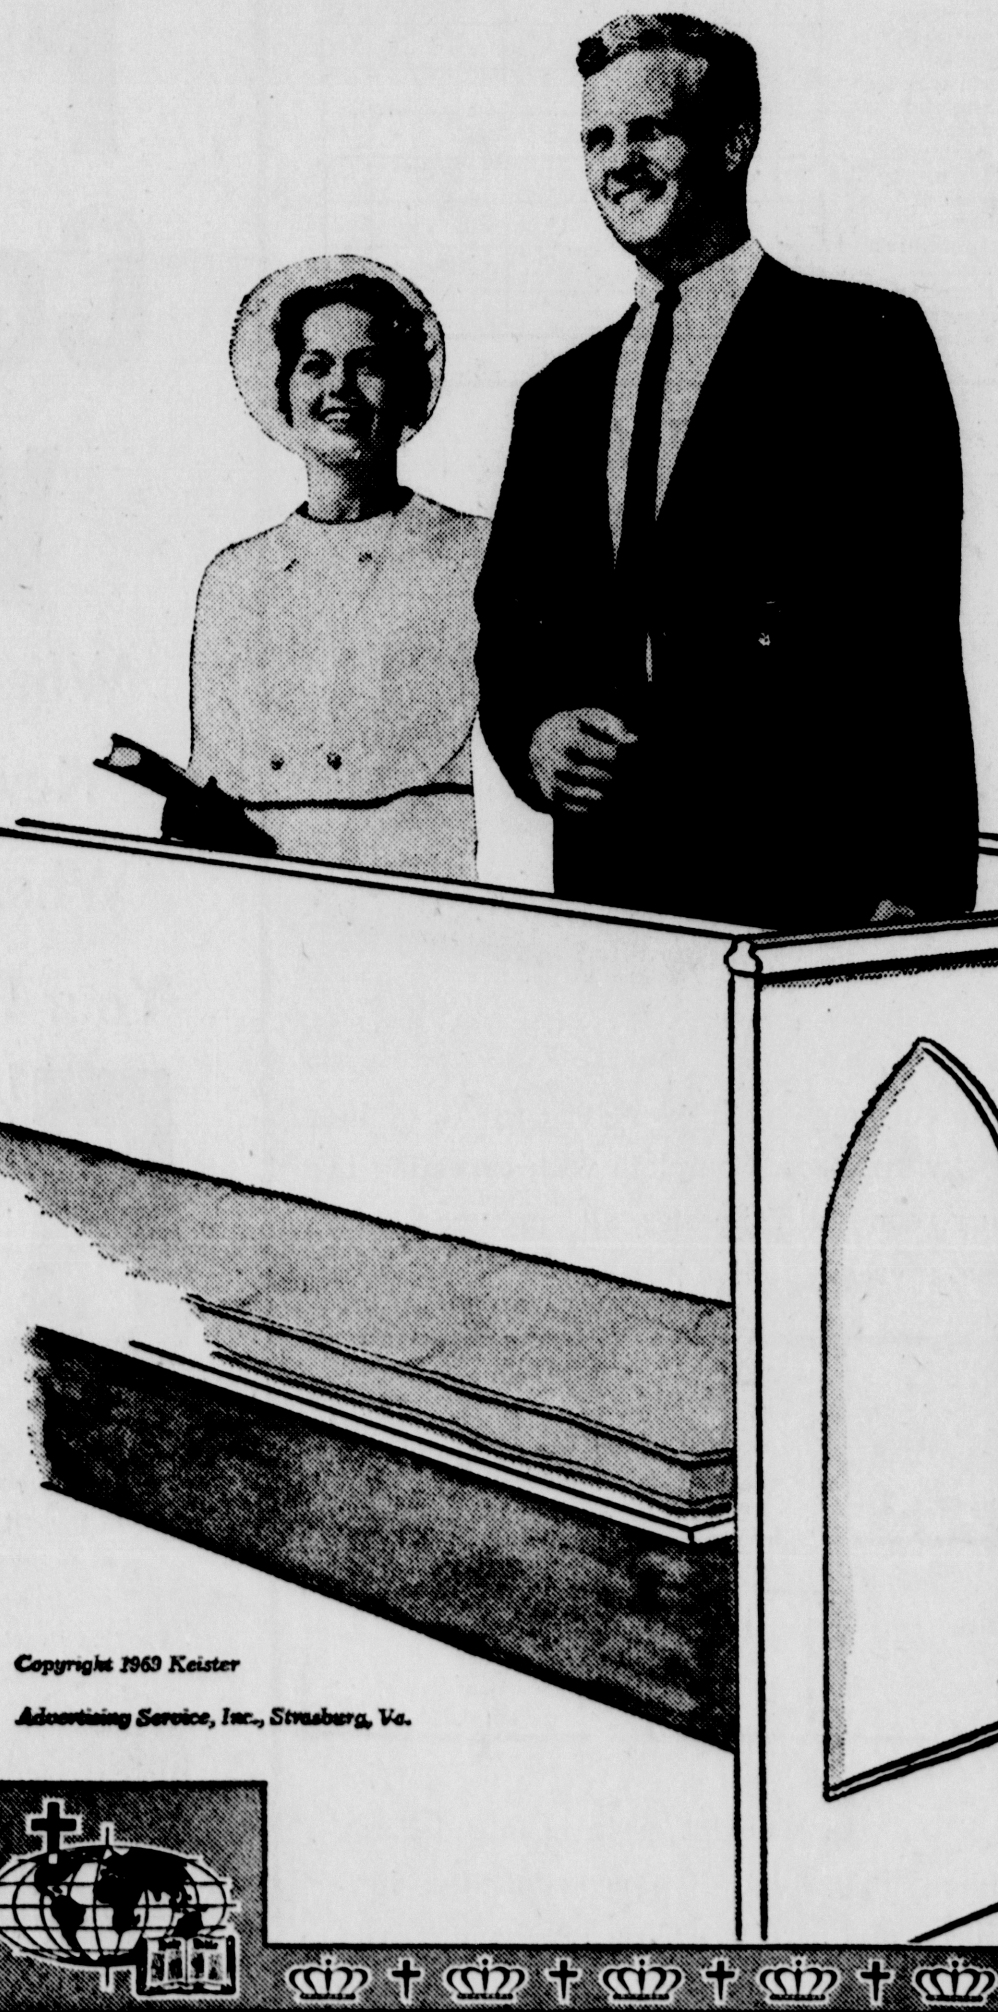

Marine Pfc. James F. Gase, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Gase, Rt. 1, New Riegel.

Marine Pfc. Charles A. Hood, husband of Christine A. Hood, 201 Eagle St., Fairport.

Marine Pfc. Robert T. Mammie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carolis F. Mammie, Columbus.

Army Pfc. Jose A. Carrion, son of Francisca Carrion, Nelsonville.

What makes them happy?

In our experience there is one place where you can be sure of seeing happy faces.

It isn't the bank—though certainly we have great respect for our banks. There people look intent, busy, serious with the financial responsibilities of life.

Nor is it at the ball game. There is no joy in Mudville when mighty Casey strikes out.

But when you go to church you see so many happy faces! It is as though people had left their troubles behind them . . . their fears . . . their worries . . . their little sadnesses and great sorrows.

Yet we know that no one can really leave these behind him. They are part of our life—and our life goes with us wherever we go.

But church is a place where men come to share their burdens with Someone Else . . . someone who cares . . . who helps . . . who strengthens.

And this kind of sharing—between man and God — has always been the root of true happiness.

Tigers Open 1969 Football Season

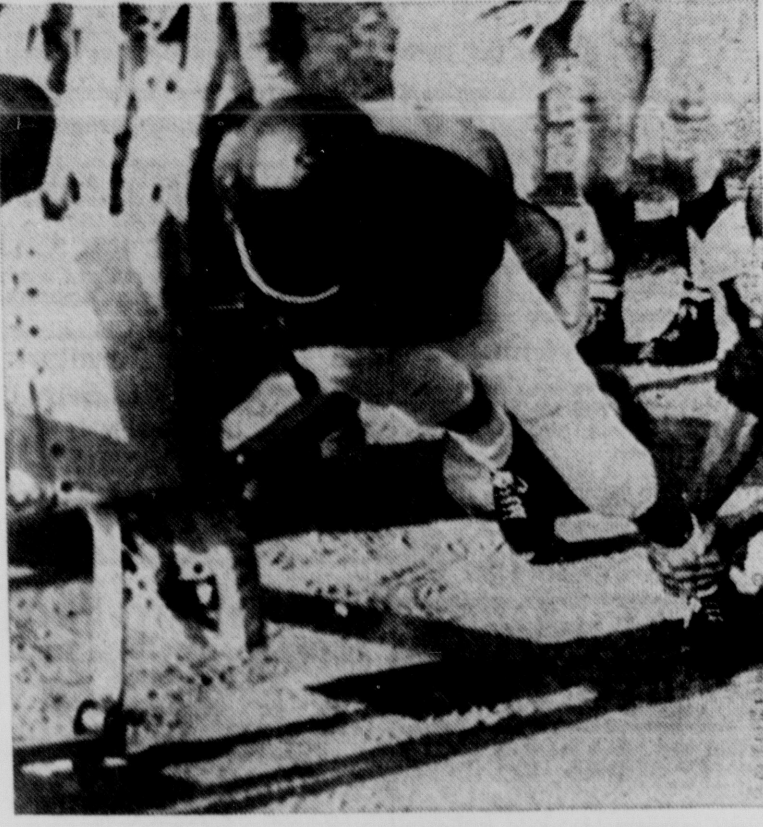

SIGNAL CALLERS — Circleville High School football coach, Denny Williams, shows his three quarterbacks how to take the snap from center, one of the most under-rated talents a signal caller must possess.

PREPARATION — CHS Tiger linemen were given a rough workout Friday. They ran, dived, roiled, pushed — all in an effort to get in shape for the 1969 football campaign which starts Sept. 5 when the Tigers host Grove City.

READY FOR SLED — The small but fast edition of the Tiger team prepares to do battle with the blocking sled. Coach Jim Lint (center) and Head Coach Williams hope that speed and excellent physical condition can offset some of the lost bulk.

HIT — A lineman on the Circleville Tiger football squad pounds the blocking sled as the team started practice Friday for the 1969 football campaign. 47 prospects were on hand for the first day of practice.

Little League Title Game Pits Elks Against Herald

BPO Elks and the Herald Hawks head off Friday night for the Little League major title. The game will be played 7:30 p.m. on the Ted Lewis Softball diamond.

Both teams carry 11-4 records into the contest. The Elks dropped American Legion 7-0 Monday to gain the berth, while the Hawks clawed Bingman's 13-2.

The Elks have taken two games from the Herald during the season, dropping one. However, that one loss took the undisputed championship from the Elks team.

IN that game, the Herald took a 1-0 lead in the second inning that was erased by a two-run Elk rally in the bottom of the frame.

The Elks added a run in the third and blanked the Hawks until the fifth when a two run bingie knotted the game.

The Hawks went ahead to score three runs in the top of the seventh, holding the Elks to one for the victory.

In the other two contests, the Elks jumped the Hawks 9-4 and 10-7.

Randy Thomas is the most-worked Elk pitcher. He fired 45 innings for the title-minded squad, allowing 34 runs on 29 hits. He walked 18 batters and fanned 80, finishing the year 3-2.

Herb Sturgell pitched 16 1-3 innings for the Elks, winning three games and losing a tilt. He allowed 18 runs on 15 hits, walking 15 and striking out 15.

EEK Cradlebaugh worked 14 innings, going 2-2 on the year. He allowed 17 runs on 18 hits, walking just six batters and fanning 13.

Mark Hoffman won three games for the Elks. He allowed 12 runs on 13 hits, walked 11 and fanned 13 in 11 2-3 innings.

Randy Thomas is the leading hitter on the team. He has 26 hits in 28 times at the plate for a .541 average.

Mark McFadden and Mark Hoffman are hitting .340 for the team.

McFadden has 16 hits in 49 times at the plate.

Hoffman has 16 hits in 47 times at bat.

PROBABLE starting lineup for the Elks will find Randy Thomas on the mound.

He will be backed up by catcher Brian Herron, first baseman Robert Rose, second sacker Mark McFadden, shortstop Eek Cradlebaugh, third baseman Mark Hoffman, left fielder Herb Sturgell, center fielder Jack Cradlebaugh and right fielder Brent Crispy.

The Herald earned a chance at the title by winning three close games by only one marker each. They took Bingman's twice 4-3 and edged Coke in a hitting match 19-18.

Phil Roll was the Hawks most worked pitcher compiling a 4-0 record for the season. Roll hurled 30 innings for the Herald whiffing 53, walking 13 and allowing only 15 hits. He hurled a no hitter and a two hitter against Bingman's and a one hitter against American Legion and Coke.

Wade Cook hurled 16 innings for the Hawks whiffing 16, allowing one base on balls and giving up 27 hits. He had a 1-2 record for the season with his best game against Purina, an 8-6 win when he allowed seven hits.

Doug Radabaugh compiled a 3-1 record for the year. He hurled for 15 innings during the season with his best effort against Bingman's in a 4-3 pitchers duel when he gave up only three hits. He allowed 12 walks in the season and gave up 17 hits while fanning 15.

JERRY Large pitched ten stanzas for the Hawks this year including an 11-2 two hitter against Purina. He fanned three, walked seven, and allowed nine hits during the season.

Tom England was the Herald's relief pitcher. He worked for four innings during the year. England allowed only six hits and one walk while fanning three.

The Hawks probable line up for Friday's title game will see the Hawks winningest hurler, Phil Roll on the hill. The catching work will go to Jeff See and the first base spot will be guarded by Jeff Williams. Jerry Large will get the second base work while Doug Radabaugh will guard the short stop position.

Wade Cook, a possible alternate for the hurling duties, may be seen at his regular position at third while the big hitting Joe Funk will be in left field. The center field position will be occupied by Tom England and right field will see Jim Hoffman in action.

In the hitting department, Phil Roll tagged two homers and a triple for the Hawks. Joe Funk was the other big hitter for the title players. He smashed one homer and three triples for the season.

Jeff See tagged the only other triple for the Hawks while Roll and England hit two doubles. See tagged three, and Cook and Radabaugh hit one during the year.

Army Denies Green Beret Release Prior To Trial

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Army authorities today denied a petition for the release of one of eight Green Beret soldiers accused of murdering a Vietnamese who turned out to be a double agent.

An official spokesman said the release was refused because of "the seriousness of the alleged offense."

Weather Girl Gets Mixed Up

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — The weather girl said Thursday: "It rained 2.05 inches last night."

Remembering only a light shower a Lawrence Journal-World reporter asked in disbelief, "Are you sure?"

"Well, I'll check," said the girl, a substitute for weather observer Louis Armstrong.

A couple of hours later the young lady was back on the phone.

"There's been a little mixup. It was only .19 inches."

"You see," she added a little sheepishly, "the building and grounds department sprinkled the lawn a couple of nights ago and the water fell in the rain gauge."

The petition was filed by a civilian attorney on behalf of Maj. Thomas C. Middleton Jr., 30, of Jefferson, S.C. His lawyer contended that pretrial detention is permissible only when the accused might try to flee or is a dangerous person at large, and the petition said this was not true of Middleton.

Sources close to the case today identified the dead man as Chu Yen Thai Khac, a Vietnamese who worked for the Special Forces as the chief of a team watching North Vietnamese infiltration trails in Cambodia.

The sources said the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency ordered him killed after films taken secretly in Cambodia exposed him as a double agent. But in about six days the CIA withdrew the order, the sources said.

The man was killed on or about June 20, but it was not clear whether the CIA changed its orders before or after the killing.

The name Chu Yen Thai Khac was one of several that have been bandied about in speculation on the hush-hush case. Sources said that although this is the "official" name of the victim, it may be an alias.

Other sources said earlier the man was shot and his weighted body dumped in the South China Sea off Nha Trang. The body has not been recovered.

The Army has filed charges of premeditated murder and conspiracy against seven U.S. Special Forces officers and one sergeant.

One of the officers, Col. Robert B. Rheault of Vineyard Haven, Mass., was commander of all Special Forces in Vietnam at the time of the killing. The others were intelligence specialists who worked with the trail watchers in Cambodia.

The eight men are being held in the Army stockade at Long Binh, outside Saigon, while the Army investigates to decide whether to bring them to trial.

The order for the arrest of the Green Beret men was signed by Maj. Gen. G. L. Mabry, commander of support forces in Vietnam, but the sources today said Mabry got his orders from the highest U.S. commander in Vietnam, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams.

Cincy Twister Damage Probed

CINCINNATI (AP) — The status of estimates to public property damaged by a killer tornado here Saturday night remained up in the air today.

Two teams of Army Engineers were to complete their tour of stricken areas in northeastern Hamilton County today, return to their headquarters in Louisville, Ky., and report to the Office of Economic Preparedness (OEP) on their findings.

The engineers and City Manager Richard Krabach viewed damaged areas separately Thursday in hopes of arriving at a more precise damage figure. Local officials believe that the figure to public facilities will surpass the $250,000 mark which would qualify areas for federal disaster aid.

Groups Oppose Haynsworth Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a controversy growing over the man widely mentioned as his choice, President Nixon is planning to disclose on Monday his nominee to fill the vacancy on the Supreme Court.

"To my knowledge, he has a candidate firmly in mind," Ronald L. Ziegler, Nixon's press secretary, said Thursday at the Western White House in San Clemente, Calif.

Private Firm Will Teach 200 Dropouts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seventeen private companies are expected to seek a chance to prove they can teach disadvantaged children with more measurable results than now shown through the schools—with no payment if they fail.

Bids are due Monday from the companies, including large educational technology firms, on the first test of a possible Nixon administration alternative to the current system of educational assistance.

The initial project calls for raising the reading and mathematics levels of about 20 potential dropouts from the Texarkana, Ark., junior and senior high schools. This is backed by a $720,000 federal grant.

The winning bidder will sign a performance contract that calls for payment only if skills are increased a specified amount within a certain time. Each youngster will get before-and-after standard tests. The contractor is paid for his successes but gets nothing for his failures.

He must also prove gains last for at least six months after the special training ends. This is intended to curb teaching techniques aimed only at test scores and not at lasting benefits.

Official of Education officials see the business approach as a possible substitute for many of the in-school enrichment programs financed by the $1.3 billion annual federal grant program for poor and disadvantaged children.

Junior High Band Tryouts Scheduled

Clifford Kerns, Circleville Junior High band director, announced the schedule for band tryouts to commence next week. All sessions will be held 6-8 p.m. each evening in the Junior High band room.

Beginning Monday, Aug. 18, woodwind section will tryout; Tuesday, brass section; Wednesday, percussion; Thursday and Friday will be a full band rehearsal.

USE THE CLASSIFIEDS

But the White House has refused comment on reports that Nixon wants U.S. Circuit Court Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr., of Greenville, S.C., to take the seat that Justice Abe Fortas resigned in mid-May.

New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, at a news conference in New York Thursday, urged Nixon not to nominate Haynsworth.

Lindsay said the judge "lacks the philosophy and sensitivity required to carry on the traditions of Louis Brandeis, Felix Frankfurter, Benjamin Cardozo and Arthur Goldberg."

However, Lindsay said, three New York judges reported to be among those considered by the President "stand in this tradition." He listed them as Stanley H. Fuld and Charles D. Breitel, both of the state Court of Appeals, and Henry J. Friendly, a federal appeals judge.

The four past judges and the three New York judges Lindsay listed, along with Fortas, all are Jewish. But, when asked if he believed there should be a so-called Jewish seat, Lindsay replied: "No ethnic, religious or national group has any claim on a seat in the U.S. Supreme Court."

Meanwhile, Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., urged Nixon not to nominate Haynsworth, an aide to the senator said. While the aide would not make public the letter, Javits reportedly wrote that it "could only be

AEC In Error On Radiation

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission says it was in error when it reported that small doses of radiation had leaked into the atmosphere from an underground nuclear explosion.

The explosion Thursday was the 14th announced this year at the Nevada test site and had a force of less than 20,000 tons of TNT. The largest of them have exceeded the power of 1 million tons of TNT.

In explaining the initial report, a spokesman said first readings indicated radioactivity of minor consequence had seeped out of the insulation of a detonation cable. Subsequently, he said, it developed the readings resulted from a cable running along the ground and not in the air above the test site.

viewed as a staggering blow to the cause of civil rights" if Haynsworth is appointed.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People is opposed to the choice of Haynsworth, said Clarence Mitchell, director of the group's Washington bureau, because "We feel that in his key decisions he has clearly taken a position in favor of segregation."
